PREREQUISITES: None.

FOR WHOM PLANNED:

This course is designed for students for all majors interested in starting, joining, or holding stakes in international ventures. It examines the creation and management of business ventures that have international dimensions and provides insights into economic and formal/informal institutions affecting entrepreneurship.

COURSE OVERVIEW AND EXPECTATIONS:

Business ventures are becoming increasingly global. For a venture, opportunities, resources, uncertainties and customers thus can come from anywhere in the world. In a related sense, countries characterized by economic, social and political environments that are conducive to entrepreneurship tend to grow and develop faster.

This course examines: (a) how entrepreneurs create and manage business ventures that have international dimensions; and (b) how economic factors, physical factors, trade factors and formal and informal institutions affect entrepreneurship.

This course is multidisciplinary in nature and scope and provides broad global perspectives on cultures, nations and sub-nationalities in the industrialized and developing world from the standpoint of entrepreneurship. This course also examines how cultural, social, political, economic and historical changes taking place in the world, especially in the economies in transition, affect entrepreneurial development. It places a special emphasis on interconnections between regions through such mechanisms as global flow of goods, services, labor, capitals, technology and people; and the roles of supra-national institutions (e.g., the OECD). The course will be organized around three major topics: (1) international entrepreneurship: drivers, performance, and impact, (2) entrepreneurship in economies with diverse economic and institutional conditions, and (3) international entrepreneurship cases.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES:

At the completion of the course, students will be able to:

- 1) Identify opportunities in international business ventures.
- 2) Evaluate the obstacles and challenges in international business ventures.
- 3) Analyze the attractiveness of international business ventures.
- 4) Apply the tools and concepts learnt in the course to identify, evaluate, start, and manage international ventures.
- 5) Assess economic and institutional factors affecting entrepreneurship in an economy.
- 6) Demonstrate an understanding of the interconnectedness among regions of the world in such aspects as colonial and neocolonial relationships, human rights, discourses of justice, cultural and aesthetic developments, technology, ecology, or epistemology.
- 7) Locate, interpret, and evaluate information on diverse global culture from the entrepreneurial angle.
- 8) Demonstrate sensitivity to cultural differences on a global scale from the perspective of entrepreneurship.

TEACHING METHODS AND ASSIGNMENTS FOR ACHIEVING LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Format

This online course requires you to participate in exams, discussion assignments, and case analyses. A tentative outline of activities is provided in this syllabus.

Attendance Policy

Face-to-face classes: Participation points are given to each class for attendance. To earn these points, you must be in attendance when role is taken and stay for the entire class period.

Online classes: You are expected to login regularly, complete and submit assignments, and participate in discussions. Please refer to above Evaluation and Grading Policy section for details.

Late Work Policy

Assignments may not be submitted late. Exceptions will be granted only in rare circumstances and be evaluated on a case-by-case basis. If an exception is granted, there will be a 25% point subtraction for each day the assignment is handed in (submitted online for online course) late.

Religious Observances

1. The University allows for a limited number of excused absences each academic year for religious observances required by the faith of the student.
2. Students must notify the instructor of absences two weeks in advance of the date of the religious observance. Also, it is required that the nature of the religious observance is specified and the student's participation be confirmed in writing by an official of the religious organization.
3. When appropriate notice is given above as specified under point two above, the student will be granted at least two excused absences under this policy and will be allowed to make up work and tests missed due to these particular absences. With regard to any test or other assignment that a student would miss due to notice of a required religious observance, the student is required to complete the test or assignment in advance of the originally scheduled date of the test or assignment. Beyond the minimum terms and limits of this policy, the instructor maintains authority to establish and enforce the attendance policy for this course.

4. The requirement for students to make such requests for excused absences applies only to days when the University is holding class.
